If they are not working and trying, she will not give them a box until they go to work. She will not let them go hungry so she may give them peanut butter and beanie weenie's but not a meal box. The boxes have $100.00 worth of food in them and that is enough to last for seven days (three meals a day) for four people. The coordinating council operates on donations only. It is for adults only and you can stay for 23 hours. The center is not a hospital and not a jail. There are staff trained to work with them and help them.
